COTTON

New York Cotton,

New York July 23.—The cotton market was higher today on rather a more optimistic view of export prespects, the continued heavy movement of cotton out of sight and the failure of weather advices to show any rain in the southwest. The demand was neither general nor agrressive, but offerings were limited and the close was stendy at a net advance of T to 8 points.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 3 points in sympathy with attendy cables. Prices worked higher on covering and moderate support from Wall street houses and there was quite a sharp bulge in the market around midday on reports that local spot people were preparing to ship considerable cotton, possibly 40,000 bales, to Russin. Ottober contracts sold up to 6,29c, or about 14 to 15 points above last night's closing figures. The advance then was checked by profit-taking or selling for a recaction and prices eased off some 6 or 7 points from the best. Advices indicating that the discussion over cotton shipments was taking a form that suggested a desire on the part of the allies to avoid any friction with this country made rather a favorable impression. his country made rather a favorable im-

"The world shanders you in the thought that you could do anything but your duty as you saw it. I do believe you." Sanford held her hand a moment longer. Then he left her.

The ensuing days for him were something unbearably kinely. He was a man who usually knew just what he wanted and was used to winning if. During the trial, with the surfering it entailed upon all concerned, his feeling for Ellen Houston had been fanned from intense regard to the flercest passion.
